In 1771 a boy was captured by the Shawnee Indians. He was not killed but was adopted into the tribe and given the name Blue Jacket when he was captured. Blue Jacket was called "the bravest of the brave and the boldest of the bold". He became Brigadier General and war chief of the Shawnee. Later he became commander-in-chief of the Indian forces.

On August 7, 1795, Chief Blue Jacket, Chief Little Turtle and all the other chiefs signed the Treaty of Greenville along with General Wayne, ending the wars in the northwest Territory. June 26, 1810, Blue Jacket died from cholera. In keeping with the Indian tradition, Blue Jacket has been selected as the name of Shawnee's yearbook.

Mr. Robert E. Bragg, B.S., M.A., Ball State University, principal, he has been in education for 22 years. considers himself fortunate would enjoy being a professional golfer.

The staff of the Blue Jacket 1972 wishes to dedicate this yearbook to our principal, Mr. Robert Bragg, and the guidance counselor, Miss Margie Ransom for their great efforts in making the first year of Shawnee one to remember. The first year of a new school is always the hardest. The arranging and organizing of classes, lunch programs, athletic programs, and other needs require much planning and work. We feel that Mr. Bragg and Miss Ransom have contributed to the success of these programs. For these reasons we wish to dedicate this book to Mr. Bragg for his patient and reasonable ways in maintaining order in Shawnee and to Miss Ransom for listening to our problems and helping us make our way through the school year. Our sincerest thanks and appreciation to the "Big Chief" and the "little squaw" from the Braves of Shawnee.
